DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 7 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b or e) as being anticipated by Biesiada et al. US 6,111,004 or Lang et al. US 6,706,806 or Ohachi US 4,740,545.
3. These claims are anticipated by the examples of each of these patents where polyvinyl chloride is combined with a polyester plasticizer.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Art Unit: 1713

5. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

6. Claims 1, 2, 7 & 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Biesiada et al. US 6,111,004 or Lang et al. US 6,706,806 or Ohachi US 4,740,545 taken alone or in view of Nishi et al. US 6,012,169.

7. As stated supra, the primary references show the material wherein the polyvinyl chloride is combined with a polyester plasticizer. The patents further teach many various applications and articles formulated from the composition. The claimed "glove" is not specifically mentioned in the primary references. The examiner maintains that given the breadth of the term "glove" and the art recognized applications of resin materials one would have a reasonable expectation of success when molding the material into a glove. It is noted that obviousness does not require absolute predictability but rather a reasonable expectation of success. That reasonable expectation of success exists in the instant case.

8. Claims 3-6 & 9-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Tada US 4,532,307 taken alone or in view of Nishi et al. US 6,012,169.

9. The patent to Tada shows plasticized polyvinyl chloride compositions see column 3, lines 45+. This patent further shows the claimed crosslinking agent, see column 7, lines 25+. Once again, many uses of the resin composition art described in a non-limiting discussion at column 8, lines 38+. Gloves are not specifically identified here but are considered obvious species of articles generically mentioned. The Nishi et al. patent is cited as further evidence of obviousness. It would be obvious to formulate the composition of Tada into the articles of Nishi et al. because one of ordinary skill would have a reasonable expectation of success.
